Lyndon Group Hires Former OCEG Vice President to Launch New Ethics & Compliance Practice

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. – Lyndon Group is pleased to announce that Douglas J. Beeuwsaert, former vice president of performance and assessment at the Open Compliance and Ethics Group (OCEG), has joined the firm as project manager in the new ethics and compliance practice. In this new role, Beeuwsaert will help Lyndon Group clients design, implement or measure programs and processes including codes of ethics and conduct; risk assessments; employment screening programs; and hotlines and helplines.

“As we continue to grow Lyndon Group’s service offerings and team of experts, we are extremely fortunate to have Doug join the firm to lead our ethics and compliance practice,” said Kenneth Jones, CPA, founder and executive managing director of Lyndon Group. “Doug’s extensive experience and knowledge of the industry, as well as his drive and vision, will make him an invaluable asset to Lyndon Group and our clients.”

Beeuwsaert has more than 20 years of governance, risk and compliance experience including serving as the chief audit executive and chief ethics officer of public and privately held companies. He was a member of the OCEG Leadership Council during his tenure at PETCO and subsequently joined OCEG as a vice president. Throughout his career, Beeuwsaert has implemented and directed several innovative and highly respected corporate governance functions including internal audit, loss prevention, and corporate ethics and compliance.
