Lyndon Group Adds Forensic Accounting Practice and Grows Ethics & Compliance Services

Newport Beach, Calif.-based accounting and finance professional services firm marks 8th anniversary and expands expertise

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. – Lyndon Group, an accounting, finance, IT and governance professional services firm specializing in high-level project-based engagements, has expanded its areas of expertise to further accommodate its growing client base. The company marked its eighth anniversary in September with a look at its new services, including forensic accounting and continued expansion in the ethics and compliance practices.

“Businesses today are committing to higher standards of corporate governance and ethical business practices, making this a dynamic time for accounting and financing professionals,” said Kenneth Jones, CPA, founder and executive managing director of Lyndon Group. “Integrating forensic accounting practices with our ethics & compliance services will allow us to go beyond traditional roles as accountants and offer the highest level of assurance for our clients.”

Headed by Lyndon Group Project Manager Lawrence Varone, the firm’s newly launched forensic accounting services focus on fraud detection through the use of forensic accounting techniques. Working with legal partners, Lyndon Group professionals perform internal accounting controls evaluation, cash flow analysis and inventory costing analysis to uncover deviations in accounting process or to verify that acceptable accounting and auditing practices have been used in the preparation of financial statements.

The firm's growing ethics and compliance practice designs, implements and measures programs and processes that address client's compliance risks and business needs, including codes of ethics and conduct; risk assessments; employment screening programs; and hotlines and helplines. This year, Lyndon Group has added two professionals to this group, which is headed by Douglas Beeuwsaert, former vice president of the Open Compliance and Ethics Group.

Founded in 2000, Lyndon Group specializes in high-level project-based engagements for private and public companies, including some of the nation's largest Fortune 500 companies as well as emerging businesses. With a network of 30 full-time professionals, all with at least 10 years of industry experience, the firm has enjoyed consistent double-digit growth in revenues since its founding.
